Goodspeed's Student Guide to the Theatre is made possible through the generosity of Goodspeed Musicals.
ABOUT THE SHOW: The Story.................................................................3
ABOUT THE SHOW: The Characters......................................................5
ABOUT THE SHOW: The Writers............................................................6
Listen Up: Tin Pan Alley Tunes...............................................................7
A Few Composers + Lyricists.................................................................8
Welcome to the Alley!...........................................................................10
Breaking into the Boys Club.................................................................11
New York City......................................................................................12
FUN AND GAMES: Word Search..........................................................13
FUN AND GAMES: Crossword Puzzle..................................................14
How To Be An Awesome Audience Member.........................................15

The Student Guide to the Theatre for Hello! My Baby was prepared by Joshua S. Ritter M.F.A, Education & Library Director and Christine Hopkins, M.A., Education & Library Assistant
ABOUT THE SHOW
The Story

HELLO! MY BABY is a riotous new-fashioned musical that reboots the greatest hits of Berlin, Gershwin, Kern, and more. When Tin Pan Alley’s teen King of the Song-Pluggers falls for a factory girl who’s also a talented musician, it’s a recipe for comic romance as they sing and dance their way through class struggles, street gangs, debutante balls and a whole lot of ukuleles. Say “Hello!” to a brand new, all-American musical valentine for all ages.

ACT I
Irish Bowery songplugger, Mickey McKee, dreams of writing a hit song to become the next Irving Berlin. Similar to his hero, however, Mickey can’t read or write a note...until he teams with Nelly Gold, a feisty Jewish sweatshop worker, who happens to be a a very talented musician. Together they make beautiful music and write a song that Mickey thinks could sell a million copies, or at least save the Gold sisters’ 12th Street Tavern from the threats of gangster Johnny Giovanni and land baron Stanford J. Tierney, who plan to demolish the Lower East Side block to build skyscrapers.

Nelly yearns to fulfill her Papa’s dying dream – to write and sell songs, but quickly learns that Tin Pan is a boy’s Alley. Undaunted, she puts on boys’ sweatshop trousers and a newsboy cap to hit the streets as Ned O’Reilly. Nelly’s disguise fools gangster Giovanni but when Ned wins Mickey’s job to become Ethelbert Coots Publishing Co.’s newest King of the Songpluggers, a fierce rivalry kicks off. Mickey, not realizing his best girl and worst enemy are the same person, finds himself tricked by fate into working with Ned on a new waltz for the society debut of Stanford J. Tierney’s daughter, Alice. At Alice’s Debutante Ball, romantic silliness unfolds with Nelly and Ned both present. Things become complicated as Alice pursues Ned, and her brother, Junior, falls for Nelly’s hardworking sister Frances. But romance fizzles when Frances and Nelly are booted from the club, leaving Mickey to debut the waltz alone when his partner, Ned, mysteriously disappears with his girl, Nelly.

ACT II
Mickey and Junior are waking a sleeping neighborhood, shouting loudly as they look for Nelly and Frances. Junior is discovered by his furious father and a misunderstanding leads Mickey to believe Nelly isn’t in love with him, but rather with Ned! Complicating matters, Mickey becomes entangled with Johnny Giovanni; Junior delivers an eviction notice to Frances, and Frances leads the neighbors in protest. Facing heartbreak, arson, and death threats, everyone decides that changes must be made. Junior runs away from home; Tierney engages Johnny to set the Gold’s building on fire; Johnny bullies Mickey into doing the dirty work; and Ned saves Mickey from having to do the deed, which reveals “his” true identity. Mickey, at last, sees Nelly for all she is and the kids save the neighborhood.
ACTIVITY 1: Unscramble the Events

Use the synopsis on page 3 to help number these events in order from 1 to 9. Number 1 should be the first thing that happens in the story and number 9 is the last thing that happens.

1. Mickey and Junior noisily look for Nelly and Frances.
2. Mickey meets Nelly and, together, they write a new song that Mickey thinks could sell a million copies.
4. Mickey begins to believe that Nelly isn’t in love with him, but rather with Ned but they are the same person!
5. The kids save the neighborhood!
6. Mickey must debut his and Ned’s waltz alone.
7. Nelly dresses up as a boy named Ned so she can become a songplugger on Tin Pan Alley.
8. Ned, or Nelly, convinces Mickey not to set the Gold’s building on fire.

ACTIVITY 2: Draw It!
Choose one of the events from the list in Activity 1 and draw a picture of what you imagine the scene to look like in the box below.
ABOUT THE SHOW

The Characters

NELLY GOLD/NED O'REILLY: A feisty teenaged sweatshop worker who plugs Tin Pan Alley songs and passes herself off as a boy named Ned.

MICKEY McKEE: A brash kid who dreams of becoming the next Irving Berlin. He is in love with Nelly, who also becomes Ned, a fierce rival.

FRANCES GOLD: Nelly’s older sister who is a serious, hard-working saloon proprietor. She discovers her romantic side when she takes a liking to a rich boy from Long Island.

VIOLET GOLD: Nelly’s younger sister who is an uncensored mischief-maker.

JUNIOR TIERNEY: A pampered Yale-man who realizes the depth of his love on the Lower East Side.

ALICE TIERNEY: A debutante who falls for Ned, never knowing that he is actually Nelly, and later realizes that it’s not Ned, but his songplugging that she is attracted to.

STANFORD J. TIERNEY: Father to Alice and Junior. He is a Long Island land baron who plans to tear down the Gold’s neighborhood and build skyscrapers in its place.

ETHEL COOTS: Mother of Albie and Artie, and half of Ethelbert Coots Music Publishing. She is the half that manages and “wears the pants.”

BERT COOTS: A mild-mannered nostalgic who just wants everyone to get along.

ALBIE COOTS: A mama’s boy who longs to bring the old-fashioned family music publishing business into the 1900s.

NOBLE T. JONES: A Harlem-born songplugger who is like a brother to Albie.

JOHNNY GIOVANNI: A young gangster who, due to a childhood accident, speaks only in rhyme.

DICKIE THE DUCK & KID VICIOUS: Members of Johnny’s Gang

MARIE: Johnny’s betrothed who is from Sicily and only speaks Italian.

Yale-Man: A graduate of Yale University, located in New Haven, Connecticut.
ABOUT THE SHOW

The Writers

CHERI STEINKELLNER has earned four Emmys, three Golden Globes, two Writers Guild Awards, a People’s Choice, Parents’ Choice, and a BAFTA award (British Academy of Film and Television Arts), for writing and producing television (“Cheers,” “Jeffersons,” “Family Ties,” etc.), and animation and film (Disney’s “Teacher’s Pet,” etc.). For stage, she has written the books for Princesses (with David Zippel, Matthew Wilder, and Bill Steinkellner – National Alliance for Musical Theatre 2003, Goodspeed Norma Terris 2003, Seattle 5th Avenue Theater 2004); Sister Act (with Alan Menken, Glenn Slater, and Bill); Mosaic (with Georgia Stitt); and Hello! My Baby (with the great composers of the Golden Age of Tin Pan Alley and Georgia Stitt). When not writing for stage and screens, Cheri teaches writing at the University of California; directs local youth productions including Rent (named Best Youth Theater production 2009 by Santa Barbara Independent), A Chorus Line, Anything Goes, Fiddler On The Roof, and Our Town; and created “The Ultimate Write-off” for the Santa Barbara Writers Conference.

GEORGIA STITT is a composer and a lyricist. Her musicals currently in development include: Big Red Sun (National Alliance for Musical Theatre Festival winner in 2010, Harold Arlen Award in 2005 written with playwright John Jiler); Hello! My Baby; The Water (winner of the 2008 National Alliance for Musical Theatre Search for New Voices in American Musical Theatre and written with collaborators Jeff Hylton and Tim Werenko); Sing Me a Happy Song (a musical revue); and Mosaic (commissioned for Off-Broadway in 2010 written with Cheri Steinkellner). Also a music director, Georgia was the vocal coach for the 2008 season of the NBC hit show “America’s Got Talent.” She was the assistant music director for the NBC TV special “Clash of the Choirs,” the on-camera vocal coach for the NBC reality TV show “Grease: You’re The One That I Want,” and the Production Music Coordinator for the Disney/ABC TV musical Once Upon A Mattress. On Broadway she was the assistant conductor of Little Shop of Horrors and the associate conductor of the Encores! production of Can-Can starring Patti LuPone. Also on Broadway: Avenue Q, Sweet Smell of Success, The Music Man, Titanic, Annie, and the national tour of Parade.

CHECK IT OUT!

Check out Georgia Stitt’s blog: http://nymusigal.blogspot.com/
Follow her on Twitter: http://twitter.com/#!/georgiastitt
Hello! My Baby is a musical that features over 25 songs from the late 1800s through the 1920s, all of which came from the United States’ public domain. Here is list of all the songs from the show. How many do you know?

“Hello! My Baby” by Joseph E. Howard & Ida Emerson
“Swanee” by George Gershwin & Irving Caesar
“Toot Toot Tootsie” by Gus Kahn, Dan Russo, & Ernie Erdman
“Give My Regards To Broadway” by George M. Cohan
“Take Me Out To The Ballgame” by Albert Von Tilzer & Jack Norworth
“Goodbye My Lady Love” by Joseph E. Howard
“Yes Sir, That’s My Baby” by Walter Donaldson & Gus Kahn
“Pretty Baby” by George W. Meyer & Al Bryan
“Sidewalks of New York” by James W. Blake & Charles B. Lawlor
“Hail, Hail The Gangs All Here” by Theodore F. Morse & Arthur Sullivan
“There’ll Be A Hot Time In The Old Town Tonight” by Joe Hayden & Theodore M. Metz
“The Band Played On” by John F. Falmer & Charles B. Ward
“Rockabye Your Baby With A Dixie Melody” by Jean Schwartz, M. Sam Lewis, & Joe Young
“Play A Simple Melody” by Irving Berlin
“I’m Always Chasing Rainbows” by Joseph McCarthy & Harry Carroll
“Modern Major General” / “Three Little Maids” by Arthur Sullivan & W.S. Gilbert
“A Good Man Is Hard To Find” by Eddie Green
“Oh, Johnny, Oh!” by Abe Olman & Ed Rose
“Ja-Da” by Bob Carleton
“Some Of These Days” by Shelton Brooks
“Alice Blue Gown” by Harry Austin Tierney & Joseph McCarthy
“If You Were The Only Girl” by Nat D. Ayer & Clifford Grey
“I Don’t Care” by Jean Lenox & Harry O. Sutton
“Stairway To Paradise” by George Gershwin, Ira Gershwin, & Buddy DeSylva
“Ballin’ The Jack” by C. Smith
“You’d Be Surprised” by Irving Berlin
“My Buddy” by Walter Donaldson & Gus Kahn
“They Didn’t Believe Me” by Jerome Kern & Herbert Reynolds
“There’ll Be Some Changes Made” by Billy Higgins & W. Benton Overstreet
“Ain’t We Got Fun” by Richard A. Whiting, Gus Kahn, & Raymond Egan
“You Made Me Love You” by James Vincent Monaco & Joseph McCarthy

CHECK IT OUT!

Take a look at the links below to see how some of the songs have been incorporated into pop culture.

“Play a Simple Melody” - http://youtu.be/aYQdbRRrgF4
“Oh, Johnny, Oh” - http://youtu.be/3dD1wXNhJco
“Ain’t We Got Fun” - http://youtu.be/B2lwboZqoz8
A FEW COMPOSERS + LYRICISTS

Many of the composers and lyricists from the musical Hello! My Baby are quite well known. Their music has been heard for decades and many would be surprised as to who authored these songs! Below are the biographies of some of the most famous Hello! My Baby composers and lyricists, including Jerome Kern, George Gershwin, Ira Gershwin, George M. Cohan, and Irving Berlin.

JEROME KERN (1885-1945) composed his first complete show, The Red Petticoat, in 1912. Between 1915 and 1919, he composed a series of intimate chamber musicals, mostly in collaboration with Guy Bolton and P.G. Wodehouse, known as the Princess Theatre shows. These works, Very Good Eddie; Oh Boy!; Oh, Lady! Lady!; Leave it to Jane; and Zip Goes A Million, are credited with laying the foundation of the modern American Musical Comedy. Throughout the 1920s Kern’s composing style broadened with works such as Sally, Sitting Pretty, Dear Sir, Sunny and The City Chap, culminating in 1927 with Show Boat. Kern also began a series of works for the stage that were more operatic and involved the close interweaving of music, song, and speech, including Sweet Adeline (1929), The Cat and the Fiddle (1931), Music in the Air (1932) and Roberta (1933). In the 1930s, Kern moved to Hollywood and wrote a series of successful film scores, including Swing Time, Cover Girl, You Were Never Lovelier and Can’t Help Singing. His final stage musical, Very Warm for May (1939), included his masterpiece, “All the Things You Are.” Among his extraordinary list of songs are “They Didn’t Believe Me,” “Look for the Silver Lining,” “Why Was I Born?,” “Don’t Ever Leave Me,” “Smoke Gets In Your Eyes,” “Yesterdays,” “The Song is You,” “I’ve Told Every Little Star,” “The Way You Look Tonight” (Academy Award 1936), “The Last Time I Saw Paris” (Academy Award 1940), “A Fine Romance” and “Long Ago and Far Away.” Kern died in New York City in 1945 while preparing to begin work with Dorothy Fields on a new musical entitled Annie Oakley.

GEORGE GERSHWIN (1898-1937) was an American composer and pianist who came to fame with the song “Swanee,” popularized by Al Jolson. Through the 1920s and 1930s, he and his brother, Ira, were Broadway’s dominant songwriting team with a succession of hit musicals, including Lady, Be Good!, Oh Kay!, Funny Face, Strike Up the Band, Girl Crazy, and Of Thee I Sing. In the last year of his life, he worked with Ira on the Fred Astaire films Shall We Dance and A Damsel in Distress. Gershwin was also a renowned composer of concert music, with works such as Rhapsody in Blue, Concerto in F, and An American in Paris.

IRA GERSHWIN (1863-1983) was an American lyricist who collaborated with his younger brother, composer George Gershwin, to create some of the most memorable songs of the 20th century. With George he wrote more than a dozen Broadway shows, featuring such songs as “I Got Rhythm,” “Embraceable You,” “The Man I Love,” and “Someone to Watch Over Me,” and the opera Porgy and Bess. Even after the early death of his brother, Ira wrote additional hit songs with composers Jerome Kern, Kurt Weill, and Harold Arlen. His critically acclaimed 1959 book Lyrics on Several Occasions is an important source for studying the art of the lyricist in the golden age of American popular song.
GEORGE M. COHAN (1878-1942) was born in Providence, R.I., on July 3, 1878, even though he always claimed it was July 4. His parents, Helen and Jeremiah Cohan, were vaudevillians who carried him on stage at the age of four months. Ten years later, George, together with his parents and sister Josephine, were delighting audiences throughout the country as The Four Cohans. Soon George displayed his versatility as a performer, writer and composer of their material, as well as business manager. In 1901, one of their vaudeville acts was expanded into a full-length musical, The Governor’s Son, featuring The Four Cohans. Cohan virtually invented the American musical comedy, penning several musicals including Little Johnny Jones, 45 Minutes from Broadway, and Little Nellie Kelly. When our country entered World War I in 1917, it was Cohan’s stirring “Over There” that became a sort of unofficial national anthem, and was later responsible, along with “You’re a Grand Old Flag,” for Cohan receiving a Congressional Medal of Honor from President Roosevelt. Not long before Cohan’s death in 1942, he was portrayed by James Cagney in the Hollywood musical Yankee Doodle Dandy. In 1968, he was given another tribute when Joel Grey starred at New York’s Palace Theatre in George M!, a panorama of Cohan’s life and songs.

IRVING BERLIN (1888-1989) produced a catalog of more than 1,000 songs—ballads, dance numbers, novelty tunes, and love songs—that defined American popular songs for much of the century. His 17 Broadway musicals and revues include: The Cocoanuts, As Thousands Cheer, Louisiana Purchase, Miss Liberty, Mister President, Call Me Madam, and Annie Get Your Gun. Berlin’s Hollywood scores include, Top Hat, Follow the Fleet, On the Avenue, Alexander’s Ragtime Band, Holiday Inn, This is the Army, Blue Skies, Easter Parade, White Christmas, and There’s No Business Like Show Business. Among his many awards and accolades were a special Tony Award (1963), the Academy Award for Best Song of the Year for “White Christmas,” and several medals of Honor in recognition of his patriotic contributions to his country.

CHECK IT OUT!
Want to learn about more of Hello! My Baby’s songwriters? Click the links below for history, photos, and music clips.

IRVING BERLIN: http://www.songwritershalloffame.org/exhibits/C3
IRVING CAESAR: http://www.songwritershalloffame.org/exhibits/C56
GEORGE M. COHAN: http://www.songwritershalloffame.org/exhibits/C213
BUDDY DeSYLVA: http://www.songwritershalloffame.org/exhibits/C101
WALTER DONALDSON: http://www.songwritershalloffame.org/exhibits/C102
GEORGE GERSHWIN: http://www.songwritershalloffame.org/exhibits/C70
IRA GERSHWIN: http://www.songwritershalloffame.org/exhibits/C72
JOSEPH E. HOWARD: http://www.songwritershalloffame.org/exhibits/C262
GUS KAHN: http://www.songwritershalloffame.org/exhibits/C91
JEROME KERN: http://www.songwritershalloffame.org/exhibits/C67
JOSEPH McCarthy: http://www.songwritershalloffame.org/exhibits/C301?exhibitId=301
GEORGE W. MEYERS: http://www.songwritershalloffame.org/exhibits/C302
JAMES VINCENT MONACO: http://www.songwritershalloffame.org/exhibits/C303
HARRY AUSTIN TIERNEY: http://www.songwritershalloffame.org/exhibits/C277
ALBERT VON TilZER: http://www.songwritershalloffame.org/exhibits/C284
RICHARD A. WHITING: http://www.songwritershalloffame.org/exhibits/C314
THE BIRTH OF TIN PAN ALLEY
The idea of Tin Pan Alley was born when musicians wanted popular tunes to become published. They felt that if their music was going to be listened to that they could charge to sell the sheet music. As a result, between the 1880s and 1890s, many music publishing companies opened on West 28th Street between 6th Avenue and Broadway. These publishing companies included Harms, Inc., Witmark & Sons, Irving Berlin Inc., Shapiro, Bernstein, & Co., Remick Music Co., Robbins Music Corp, and E.B. Marks Music Company.

THE TIN PAN ALLEY CREW
By 1903, an American song could have been released by any one of the hundreds of song publishers on Tin Pan Alley. Conducting business from buildings that were formerly apartments, these music publishing companies hired songpluggers to sell the sheet music to their songs.

In addition to playing the music of other writers, songpluggers also often played their own songs, hoping to promote their music straight from within the company that published their songs. These original songpluggers included famous musicians such as George Gershwin and Jerome Kern.

Gershwin and Kern, along with many other music publishers like Julie Witmark, E.B. Marks, Charles K. Harris, and Joseph Stern, were instrumental (no pun intended!) in promoting the new songs of Tin Pan Alley.

THE START OF SONGPLUGGING
The term songplugging comes from a generation of piano players from the early days of Tin Pan Alley. These piano players often sat on the balcony level of a music store and played the newest popular tunes released by the music industry. Since there were no radios or listening devices at this time, music could only be heard live from the offices of music publishers and purchased in the form of sheet music. The offices had musicians displayed publicly at their upright pianos in the company windows, playing the latest musical creations with the intent of attracting an ear and making a sale. There were several music publishing companies residing in Tin Pan Alley, located at West 28th Street between 6th Avenue and Broadway in New York City. These companies collectively left their doors and windows open so that the sounds of the pianos could be heard by the passing public. As a result, the mixed piano songs from within the many offices of Tin Pan Alley filled the area with something like the sound of banging tin pans.

The songpluggers’ job today is to promote the music of a limited number of songwriters on a more personal level. Instead of working for a large music publishing company like they did in the early 1900s, songpluggers now create a bond and work solely with a few songwriters to help promote their music. Artists today find that when using a publishing company, representatives from the publisher’s office will attend meetings with recording studios and have very little time to pitch songs. Due to this time restraint, publishers can only play a select few songs. The publishers often have an extremely large collection of songs, so the likelihood that a specific artist’s song will be chosen for publication is very slim. Songpluggers, however, present the music of specific artists to multiple contacts in hopes that one of them will decide to record and release the song. Good songpluggers know their client personally and believe in the success of their craft.

THE END OF TIN PAN ALLEY
The end of Tin Pan Alley arguably came after the Great Depression in 1930 when radio and records replaced sheet music. The businessmen and musicians of Tin Pan Alley realized that the future of profitable music distribution would come from the newest form of entertainment, known as motion pictures. Since the film industry became the dominant form of entertainment in the United States, many musicians from Tin Pan Alley combined their talents with movie-makers and moved from New York to Hollywood.

DID YOU KNOW...
Tin Pan Alley is a term coined by journalist Monroe Rosenfeld, who wrote several articles for the New York Herald expressing that the sound of multiple pianos playing simultaneously on 28th Street was similar to that of crashing tin pans.
WOMEN’S ROLES
During the late 1800s, when Tin Pan Alley was born, and throughout the early 1900s, the workforce predominantly consisted of males. Men were almost exclusively the composers, lyricists, and songpluggers of New York City. In the late 1800s, it was expected that women would get married, have children, and stay at home to keep the house in order. Men, at this time, were typically the head of the home and worked for major corporations.

It was not until 1920, with the passing of the 19th Amendment, that women were able to vote. With this right came a newfound feeling of empowerment and bravery. For the first time, women began to step away from their homes to join the workforce. They typically held low-paying positions and were often employed in what were thought of as “feminine” occupations, like nursing, teaching, and secretarial or clerical positions.

BREAKING ALL THE RULES
The music industry predominantly employed males. It was a profession that would rarely hire females, even in the secretarial and clerical positions! Case in point is how in Hello! My Baby, Nelly Gold had to dress up as a boy, named Ned O’Reilly, to work as a songplugger and pursue her dream of writing music. However, she was not the first female to secure a position in the music business.

ANN RONELL
One of the first women to become employed by the music industry was Ann Ronell (1905-1993). She broke away from the norm when she became a vocal coach on Tin Pan Alley. At the time, if a female was fortunate enough to find work on Tin Pan Alley, she typically worked initially as a rehearsal pianist, transcriptionist, or personal assistant. Ronell was discovered by George Gershwin, who helped her break into the business.

Ronell, a humorous and talented artist, was the first woman to write music and lyrics for a Broadway musical. She also was the first woman to compose a score for a Hollywood movie and to earn an academy award nomination.

Ronell’s songs were critically acclaimed and loved by public audiences. Her songs from the Broadway musical Count Me In and her hits “Rain on the Roof,” “Willow Weep for Me,” and “Who’s Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf?” are still listened to today!
Hello! My Baby is set in New York City. Throughout the musical, we meet different characters and see the neighborhoods that they are from. Many of the characters in Hello! My Baby are from one of the two neighborhoods, the Lower East Side or the Upper East Side. For example, The Gold family is from the Lower East Side and the Tierney family is from the Upper East Side. Both areas are in the borough of Manhattan and are very culturally different.

THE LOWER EAST SIDE
When immigrants traveled to Ellis Island in New York City they were mostly sent to an area of New York City called the Lower East Side. Bordered by East Third Street, the Bowery, Catherine Street, and the East River, the Lower East Side quickly became one of the busiest residential and commercial districts in New York City in the early 1900s. In 1910, large populations of predominantly Jewish, German, and Irish immigrants came from their home countries. Trying to escape revolution and famine, about 373,057 moved into tenements on the Lower East Side. Since there were so many people immigrating to New York City, these tenements were overcrowded, cramped, and often unsanitary. Many of the immigrants who came to the United States had very little money and no prospects when they got to New York City, so they had to live in the cheapest housing they could find. They also needed a place where they could find employment or open a business. The Lower East Side – especially Orchard Street – was this place. It became home to the working class and it also transformed into one of the most highly populated regions of 1900s New York City. Within just a few years, the area was full of factory workers and peddlers.

THE UPPER EAST SIDE
The Upper East Side of New York City was and is much larger than the Lower East Side. Spanning from 59th Street to 110th Street and 5th Avenue to the East River, the Upper East Side was also an attractive place for immigrants. In the late 1860s development of the Upper East Side began. The new concept of public transportation made it easier for Upper East Side residents to travel throughout New York City and the building of brownstones and mansions on 5th Avenue invited a more wealthy population of high-society moguls, debutantes, and heirs. As a result, the Upper East Side became a very ritzy and glamorous place to live.

WHAT IS THAT???
Ellis Island: The most commonly used arrival location for immigrants traveling into the United States between 1892 and 1943.

Tenement: A building with residential spaces available for very low rent. These spaces are usually neglected, over-crowded, and not maintained.

Peddlers: A person who travels from place to place while trying to sell small goods to passerby on the street.

Brownstones: An expensive style of building made from sandstone and that has a brownish-red color.

CHECK IT OUT!
Take a virtual tour of some Lower East Side tenements: http://www.tenement.org/Virtual_Tour/index_virtual.html

Get a first hand look at the life of an immigrant coming to New York City: http://www.tenement.org/immigrate/
Fun and Games
Word Search

Answers:

Brownstone
Composer
Debutante
Ellis Island
Frances
George Gershwin
Irving Berlin
Piano
Composer
Irving Berlin
Piano
Debutante
Ira Gershwin
Lyricist
Ellis Island
Vaudevillians
Frances
George Gershwin
Irving Berlin
Brownstone
Composer
Debutante
Ellis Island
Frances
George Gershwin
Irving Berlin
Piano
Composer
Irving Berlin
Piano
Debutante
Ira Gershwin
Lyricist
Ellis Island
Vaudevillians
ACROSS
1 Who sat at the balcony level of a music store and played the newest popular tunes released by the music industry?
6 This female character dresses up as a boy so that she can write and sell songs on Tin Pan Alley.
9 Who broke away from the norm when she became one of the first women to become employed on Tin Pan Alley?
10 Who wrote the new lyrics for Hello! My Baby?
11 Hello! My Baby is a ________ musical because it features popular music from another time period.
12 Hello! My Baby is set on the sidewalks of which city?

DOWN
2 Who wrote the new music and arrangements for Hello! My Baby?
3 The area on West 28th Street between 6th Avenue and Broadway that was established when musicians wanted popular music to become published.
4 This character in Hello! My Baby dreams of writing a hit song but can’t read or write music.
5 An area in New York City that invited a more wealthy population of high-society moguls, debutantes, and heirs.
7 Many immigrants lived in buildings that were overcrowded and often unsanitary, known as ________.
8 A person who travels from place to place while trying to sell small goods to passersby on the street.

Answers:
How to Be an Awesome Audience Member

Seeing a musical at the Goodspeed Opera House is a unique and exciting experience. All the members of the production, both cast and crew, work hard to give you a great show. As an audience member, you also have an important job. You must help the performers give their best performance possible. You can do this by practicing these rules of theater etiquette:

• Do laugh when the performance is funny.

• Do applaud when the performance is over. Applause is how you say “Thank you” to the performer. The actors will bow as you applaud. That is how they say “Thank you for coming.”

• Do stand and applaud if you thought the show was outstanding.

• Don’t forget to turn off your cell phone. A ringing or buzzing phone can be very distracting. It can also be embarrassing for you if it is your phone that is disrupting the show!

• Don’t text during the performance.

• Make sure to visit the restroom before the production begins.

• Don’t speak or whisper during the performance...whispering is still speaking, so only in an emergency should whispering occur.

• Remember that the Overture (introductory music) in musical theatre is part of the performance, so remain silent when the show begins.

• Don’t take pictures during the performance. It can be very distracting to the actors and it can result in an accident.

• Only sit in the chairs when they are in the folded down position.

• Don’t put your feet up on the seats or kick the seat in front of you.

• Do remain in your seat for the entire performance. If you must leave, exit during intermission. In an emergency, calmly walk toward the nearest exit.